Paul is an experienced banking professional and chartered accountant with over 25 years of international risk management and professional services knowledge with PricewaterhouseCoopers, National Australia Bank (NAB) and Bankwest.

Paul has worked in Melbourne, Perth and New York for NAB in a variety of risk roles including the State Head of Risk for Business Banking Western Australia and the Head of Strategy Advisory Team. His Western Australian role saw Paul lead a team of 33 credit risk professionals during the mining boom and the Global Financial Crisis. Since returning to Perth in 2013, Paul has worked at Bankwest, most recently as a General Manager in the Products & Marketing division.

Paul has an in-depth understanding of the issues facing businesses when applying for or reviewing finance facilities and has a strong network of relationships throughout the Western Australian banking industry. His credit risk and banking knowledge delivers commercial value in a number of situations – applying for finance, dealing with financier asset management units and succession planning.

Paul's unique blend of credit risk, workout and business assessment skills across a range of industries, combined with an independent director's perspective, are of significant value to a company looking to improve their financier relationship.

Paul fundamentally believes in the fee for service model and Quadrant Advisory does not earn any trail, commission or other fees from financiers. This means he is truly independent and 100% committed to working in his clients' best interests.
